The International Trade Club provides great value access to a wealth of expertise and contacts in the field of trading internationally. Sharing experiences with like-minded exporters and the staff at East Lancashire Chamber of Commerce is a great way to increase our knowledge base and actively promote our business in the local area as well as further afield.

Our prestigious breakfast meetings provide vital, informative presentations from guest speakers specifically designed for our Importers and Exporters to develop their knowledge of key issues and to share their experiences with fellow members.

Guest Speakers

Eliza Ward from the Ethical Trading Initiative (ETI), a membership organisation with over 90 members from large retailers such as John Lewis and most major UK supermarkets. Eliza will talk about how businesses are using the framework of ETI to respond to the growing pressure for business to demonstrate responsible behaviour including the Modern Slavery Act.

John Pickervance is an Associate at Forbes Solicitors, specialising in Commercial Law both on a national and international basis. John regularly advises businesses of all sizes on international trade and with focus on contractual issues such as Agents and Distributors. Different laws and practices need to be considered when trading overseas and John will cover some of the main points to note and pitfalls to be aware of.

Despite the looming issues of Brexit, the UK continues to have a thriving business culture and recognises the need for short term business trips in the UK. Jacqueline Woodland an Immigration Consultant with over 18 years' experience in direct corporate/business immigration will provide vital information on how you can ensure your company is fully compliant - the do's and don'ts, what documents are required, the length of stay and the cost; and most importantly Business Visa's.
